2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102

that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior

3. Claims 1-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. As to claim 1, Cochran teaches the invention as claimed, including a method of addressing and configuring a remote device; said method comprising:

identifying an input/output device coupled to a network (page 3 para. [0031 and 0033]);

assigning a network address to said device in accordance with a dynamic protocol (page 3 para. [0029 and 0033]); and configuring said device with operational parameters in accordance with a dynamic protocol (pages 4-6 para. [0039 and 0043]).

- 5. As to claims 2, 4-7, Cochran teaches updating a data structure in accordance with said assigning; using Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol; transmitting data and instructions to said device using Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol; said updating comprises modifying a data structure maintained at a domain name server; transmitting instructions to a programmable logic controller incorporated in said device (pages 3-5 para [0031, 0033, and 0039]).
- 6. As to claim 3, Cochran teaches ascertaining a physical location of said device on said network (page 5 para. [0041]).
- 7. Claims 8-36 have similar limitations as claims 1-7; therefore, they are rejected under the same rationale.
